Our City comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

I. W. W. Get the Ounce of Prevention From California

THE adage, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," may well be applied to the I. W. W. and other radical elements.

By the enacting of laws stringent enough to keep this element from securing a foothold in California, a great deal of trouble and agitation will be prevented.

* * *

A STEP forward in this regard was taken yesterday when Judge Charles O. Busick of the supreme court of Sacramento county issued a sweeping temporary injunction prohibiting virtually all activities of the I. W. W. and affiliated bodies in the state.

* * *

CALIFORNIA will do well in profiting by the experience of the state of Washington with the I. W. W. There the I. W. W. activities were allowed to continue until the movement gained considerable headway.

This injunction will pave the way towards having the I. W. W. declared an unlawful organization and its acts can then be treated as are other unlawful activities.

CHILD IS RUN DOWN BY AUTO

Jas. McClain, 6, Receives Fracture of Ribs; Driver Is Unidentified

James McClain, 6 years of age, son of Mr. and Mrs. James N. McClain of 1135 East California avenue, suffered two broken ribs when he was run down by an automobile on Broadway in front of the sanitarium at about 6:15 o'clock Monday evening. The lad was taken into the sanitarium hospital, where he was treated.

The identity of the man who struck the boy is not known. It is known, however, that he drove a Willys-Knight car. The accident was reported to the police department by Officer Collins.

At last reports little Jimmy was resting as easily as could be expected.

UNA-DRIVE MOTOR TRUCK CORPORATION ANNOUNCES PLANS

To Occupy More Than Nine Acres on San Fernando Road at End of West Colorado, With Three Unit Plant

TOTAL OF $155,000 TO BE PUT IN BUILDING

Construction to Start on or About September First; Payroll to Range From $75,000 to $80,000 Monthly With 650 Employes

The Rogers Una-Drive Motor Truck Corporation has chosen nine and one-half acres on San Fernando road at the end of West Colorado boulevard as the site for their three-unit plant, where the Rogers truck is to be manufactured.

Each unit is to be erected at a cost of $55,000, the first of which will face San Fernando boulevard for a length of 400 feet, extending back 70 feet. Application for the building permit has been made through the Los Angeles building department, and 30 days will be consumed before this permit is granted. With the arrival of structural steel from the east, construction will be started on the first unit, on or about the first of September, according to H. C. Powell, secretary and treasurer of the corporation.

"Our payroll will range between $75,000 and $85,000 a month, and we expect to employ 650 men. Glendale will be the city to benefit by this addition to population and although the site for our plant is just outside the city limits, it may be considered a Glendale institution.

"The Austin Company of California have been given the job of drawing up plans for the building. We have adopted the plan for the first unit, which will be located on San Fernando boulevard and bounded by Colorado, when that street is cut through.

"I personally investigated every city of over 10,000 population in California, before choosing Glendale. Aside from the choice geographical location, there are other points which were considered in making Glendale the city of our choice. It helps any city to have a large industry added to its list of institutions, and Glendale, having none as large as that of the Rogers truck will realize what it means.

"If our present plans work out satisfactorily, we intend to start production about January 1. Our present plant is located at Sunnyvale, Calif. There are many points in the construction of the Rogers four-wheel drive truck that make it one of the most powerful on the market, with in fact, only two other makes of four-wheel drive trucks in competition."

Harry Curtis, engineer for the corporation, has been making test drives in the Rogers truck which has been parked on West Harvard. It is planned to continue these tests in a spectacular manner at a later date. Double reduction axles in front and rear, with the exception of the stationary spindle in the rear, and the unique Rogers steering ball-joint in the front, form features that are new in the automotive world. This joint removes every trace of steering strain, it is claimed. The self-locking differentials in both axles insure that cardinal point—a pull on every wheel under all conditions.

Further announcement will be made as to the time of the tests to be made with the Rogers truck in this city. The time for the spectacular test depends on the arrival of non-skid apparatus for the rear wheels.

MIKE BURMAN IS MUCH WANTED MAN

Will someone page Mike Burman? He is wanted in connection with the payment to the Pacific Electric of the money for the lowering of the tracks on Brand.

City Manager Reeves has been informed by the officials of the Pacific Electric company that the work of lowering the tracks on Brand boulevard between Colorado street and Windsor road has been completed and that the $10,000 that was promised the company at the completion of the work is due and payable.

Mr. Reeves has been trying to get in touch with Mike all morning as there are some details that must be O. K'd by him before the money can be paid over to the P. E., according to Mr. Reeves.

MASONIC PICNIC HELD SATURDAY

Through an error which was not caught in the proof reading, the account of the beefsteak dinner and stag party given by Glendale Masons was published as of Sunday. It took place Saturday afternoon and participants were otherwise engaged on Sunday.

This is an annual affair and is always held on Saturday. Heretofore the guests have motored to more distant picnic grounds, but they discovered this time that they can have a very good time at home.

COUNCIL TO TACKLE DOG LAW

Another Attempt to Settle Question of Proper Ordinance

Another attempt will be made tonight by the Glendale city council and other city officials in conjunction with a committee from the Dog Protective association to settle the dog question in this city. The meeting will be held in the city hall.

The question of dogs and dog ordinances has been before the council for months. Arguments for and against the proposition have been heard. Bursts of oratory from the contending factions have resulted in the council making a number of reversals as to their policy in this matter. Ordinances were adopted at one meeting, only to be repealed at the next.

Various methods of taking care of stray dogs have been suggested, including vaccination of the animals with anti-rabies serum, but thus far nothing has been brought forward that is satisfactory to all.

The Dog Protective association, which succeeded a short time ago in knocking out the ordinance that would make it compulsory to have dogs vaccinated, is now attacking the present dog ordinance that has been on the books for months. This ordinance prohibits any dog, licensed or unlicensed, being permitted to run the streets. The association demands that licensed dogs be permitted to run at large without being picked up and also the formation of a commission to handle the dog question. It is rumored about the streets that the council members have agreed to repeal the present ordinance, leaving the city without any means whatever of handling the dogs of the city and those which may stray in from outside points.

It is expected that speakers representing both sides of this question will be on the job tonight to present their cases, so that, slangically speaking, there should be real "fireworks."

CHARGED WITH BOOTLEGGING

Abdo of 841 Dale street, Los Angeles, was arrested at 11 o'clock Monday morning by Glendale officers, the charge against him, according to Judge Lowe, being transporting liquor, the act that brought about the arrest having been committed on Thursday, July 12. Police claim that on that date Abdo attempted to deliver wine to 365 West Hawthorne street.

Abdo furnished bail in the amount of $300 to assure his appearance at his arraignment at 2 p. m. on Tuesday, July 24.

An effort is being made to find the owner of the animal.

SEWER PLAN DUE AT END OF THE WEEK

So Says Los Angeles City Attorney This Morning

QUESTION OF TIME

Must Hold Both Cities for an Indefinite Period

The Glendale sewer proposition will be referred back to the Los Angeles city council by the legal department of that city before the end of this week, according to a statement given out by City Attorney Stephens this morning. Mr. Stephens said he had intended to take the matter back to the council this morning, but this he could not do on account of press of business.

Attorney Stephens expressed the belief that the proposition will be worked out satisfactorily to both Glendale and Los Angeles, but, he stated, there are several points that must thoroughly be gone over. One of these is the fact that if the contract in question were entered into it would hold for all time. When once Glendale has been permitted to connect with the Los Angeles outfall, the state board of health would not allow the Los Angeles authorities to refuse Glendale service, regardless of the type of contract that may be entered into.

Attorney Stephens, who is handling this sewer matter personally, expressed himself as being optimistic that the proposition will be ultimately worked out to the satisfaction of both cities.

LUTHERAN CHURCH TO MOVE SEPT. 1 TO KENWOOD

Escrow Details Retard the Work of Construction

Technicalities of putting through an escrow have retarded somewhat actual construction work on the new Lutheran church which is to be built on Kenwood on lots the rear of which will adjoin the Central Christian church property.

The church has, however, until September 1 to vacate the corner of Maryland and Harvard, which the buyer expects to improve.

The present church is to be moved to the new site and form a part of the new structure. It will be an annex to the main edifice and an additional story will be built to bring it to the roof line of the parsonage which will adjoin it.

The architecture of the plan is modified Spanish and is exceedingly attractive. At one extremity of the 100 foot frontage will be the main auditorium, the entrance to which will be between two towers of different height, the higher one surmounted by a belfry and cross. This and the parsonage will be placed 20 feet back from the street line and the space grassed. The annex which will be in the center, will be set 60 feet back leaving space for a central court to be beautified with grass and shrubbery.

While the building is in progress it will be possible to use the auditorium of this annex for church services.

FIRE IN ALLEY MENACES BUILDING

SNEAK THIEF IS ACTIVE IN HOUSE

A sneak thief went through the coat belonging to Max Meyer, a plasterer, 1004 Maple avenue, Los Angeles, as he was working on the house that is being erected at 119 Laurel avenue, Monday morning, and, according to police records, got away with a $30 watch and chain, a $2.50 gold piece and about $2 in change. Lieut. W. G. Royle and Detective Blake are working on this case.

FRUIT STAND IS LOOTED BY THIEVES

The fruit stand located at 1000 South Glendale avenue, operated by Mrs. Willis, was robbed Sunday night, but up to this time the identity of the thieves has not been learned. Detective Blake has this matter in charge.

Ralph Arnold, chairman of the committee of arrangements for President Harding's itinerary in Southern California, has called a meeting of committee representatives of the various towns for Tuesday to perfect final arrangements. LEGION WOMEN TO STAGE FOOD SALE

Plans were made at the regular meeting of the American Legion auxiliary held Monday afternoon with Mrs. Margaret Kaeding in charge for a food sale to be held to raise money towards sending delegates to the state convention at Eureka next month. Arrangements are also being made for a special meeting of the auxiliary when there will be a class initiation.

TUESDAY CLUB TO BUDGET

Adopts System for the Coming Year's Activities

Inaugurating the luncheon idea as a means of furthering the social acquaintance of its members, there will be two luncheon meetings held each month, beginning with the new club year of the Tuesday Afternoon Club in October. This was one of the decisions arrived at at a very busy session of the executive board of the club held Monday. The new year will be a busy one for the members of the Tuesday Afternoon Club as it is planned to hold meetings every Tuesday.

The executive board met at the clubhouse at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and at 12:15 adjourned for luncheon with the curators of sections. This was followed by a short conference regarding the time and location for meetings of the sections.

The board then resumed its business session, which lasted until a late hour. The budget system was adopted for the season of 1923-24 as being absolutely necessary for running a club of this size in a business like way.

The luncheon meetings of the club will be held on the first and third Tuesdays of each month and will be served by a cateress. Only 300 will be served at each luncheon and it will be necessary to procure tickets in advance.

A great deal of the time of the meeting was given over to the discussion of the new year book. The board plans to make this as fine a year book as possible and one which will be of great interest to the club members.

Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward, program chairman, presented the following names for her committee, which were approved by the board: Mrs. Ed Cleophas, Mrs. Alma Gibbs, Mrs. Roy Ballagh and Mrs. E. B. Sutton. With a much larger membership than last year, the board will have more money towards the programs and some very fine things are being arranged for by the committee.

Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, chairman of the ways and means committee, presented a check for $721.59, bringing the total amount of money raised by the committee during the year up to $6,200, or just $200 more than the goal set by her at $6,000. This $721.59 included $335.70 which was raised by the home economics section while she was on her vacation. The section also purchased $20 worth of card tables.

A complete list of section curators for the coming year was approved by the board, as follows: Mrs. Andrew P. Findlay, general curator; arts and crafts No. 1, Mrs. H. A. McPherson, No. 2, Mrs. W. C. Wattles; drama, Mrs. Max Green; music, Mrs. Warren Roberts; parliamentary law, Mrs. C. A. Brandstater; literary, Mrs. H. C. Wilcox; Americanization, legislation and international relations, Mrs. F. J. Ganz; maids' and young matrons, Mrs. C. G. Putnam; Shakespeare, Mrs. Walter Jones; Bible, Mrs. Charles Temple; fine arts, Mrs. Roy Ballagh; home economics, Mrs. T. G. Widmeyre.

It was decided that the ways and means committee would direct the activities of sections and committees in the matter of raising money for the club and that all money raised be turned over to this committee.

At a short session of the section curators, that followed the luncheon, it was decided that the curators would organize in order that their activities could be worked out more in harmony. When one section is giving a party, dance or other event for the club benefit it was decided that no other section should give any entertainment during that month but that all would join in making the one event a big success.

MERCHANTS ASSOCIATION TO STAGE ANNUAL PICNIC WEDNESDAY AUGUST 15

Elks' Band to Give Concerts; Long Program of Entertainment, Games and Fun; Local Stores to Be Asked to Close Doors for the Entire Day

The Credit Men's association at its noon luncheon meeting yesterday at the Glen Inn settled upon Wednesday, August 15, as the day for holding the annual merchants' picnic, and it was announced that Haddock & Nibley, owners of Verdugo Park, had generously donated the use of the park for the big event. City Manager Reeves also announced that he had induced the city to provide its weekly concert on Wednesday instead of Friday for the benefit of the merchants, and the Elks' Club band will be on hand at Verdugo Park to entertain with one of its fine concerts.

Plans for the picnic are under way and from present indications it will be a great affair. Every merchant, including the chain stores, will be importuned to close all day Wednesday, August 15, for the picnic, and a majority have already signified their willingness to close. A great program, consisting of all kinds of games, etc., will be put on and a dance at night in the park pavilion will round out the day's pleasures.

A committee from the Chamber of Commerce was present at the noon luncheon yesterday to ascertain the true status of the exposition fund, which was divided equally between the Chamber of Commerce and the Credit Men's association, giving each organization a little more than $1600. The chamber committee understood that the entire amount of $3200 was to go to an advertising fund to be used in spreading the fame of Glendale throughout the Southland and to the four corners of the globe. However, after a little light thrown upon the subject it was discovered that at no time had the Credit Men's association even intimated as a body that its share of the exposition funds would be used for any other purpose than what the Credit Men's association might designate. A general impression had been made, it was stated by members of the Chamber of Commerce committee, that the entire amount was to be used for advertising, but such proposition never came up for consideration by the Credit Men's associtaion, and the association therefore felt that it was acting wholly within its rights to hold the money derived from the exposition. The matter elicited considerable discussion, but it was brought out that the misunderstanding was due to no one in particular, but to the fact that a definite understanding apparently was not reached before the exposition was put on. It had been understood all along that the Chamber of Commerce would use its share of the proceeds for advertising purposes, and it seems to have been taken for granted by some that the Credit Men's association would do likewise.

AD COMMITTEE HOLDS MEETING

A meeting of the advertising committee of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce was held at the office of W. B. Twining on South Brand boulevard, Glendale, at 9 o'clock this morning. At this session the cover for the new booklet that is being issued by the committee was accepted. City Manager Reeves, who is a member of this committee, stated this morning that this booklet will be out in about two weeks.

Mr. Nathan of the Nathan Advertising agency of Los Angeles was present. Action upon matters discussed was deferred until another meeting to be held this evening.

MONDAY IS RECOGNIZED BY SHOPPERS

Eighth Week of Crusade Shows Better Sales Than Ever

BEATEN PATHS MADE

Merchants Who Enter Into Spirit of the Day Get Results

By JENNIE SWENSON

The identity of Monday has become firmly established as the shopping day in Glendale. Yesterday the streets presented a scene of hurry and flurry, scarcely believable for a day in mid July.

It is merely another instance of the old saying that the world will make a beaten path to the door of him who produces the thing that excels, even though he live in the heart of the desert. Glendale, of course, is far from the heart of the desert, but judging by experiences in previous summers, the summer months were at one with an extreme difficulty in gaining patronage of the stores.

Therefore, when the streets present a scene of activity in the middle of July, and that on Monday, observing ones may know that something unusual—really unusual is happening, and that there must be some hitherto unnoticed magnet charged with drawing power, nearing the surface of city affairs.

It was a matter of a few seconds only, when the motion pictures were being shot yesterday at the corner of Harvard and Brand, until a huge throng had congregated on both sides of the street. These were not street loiterers. They were shoppers, and mostly women. Curiosity and interest called them to the scene of the camera, but the real lure that brought them to the business section of Glendale was the magnet known as value.

The Glendale merchants are continuing to offer values to their patrons, and these are not only offered on Monday, but on every day. Special articles are given special prices, in many instances, on Mondays, but the main idea back of the Glendale merchants' store to store exposition, is that value is a permanent factor in merchandising in Glendale, just as it is in any city where a live commercial interest is felt, and loyalty to home and neighborhood merchants evidenced.

It has been the mission of the Glendale Press to tell to the people of this city the story of values to be had. How well the story has been told does not enter into the consideration, but the fact that it has been told, that the people have heard, and that the people have responded, and the merchants and patrons have been gratified, are the points which indicate long life for Glendale Monday, and it has been gratifying to note with what enthusiasm and loyalty the people of Glendale have made their response on these various Mondays since the inauguration of the campaign.

UNREST PERVADES EUROPE, PIERCES FIND ABROAD

Glendalians Return From Trip Through Many Countries

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Peirce of 317 West Vine street returned Saturday from a most interesting four months' trip abroad, during which they visited Italy, Switzerland, Holland, Belgium, Germany, France and England. Sailing from New York City to Italy, they first visited Naples, Rome, Florence, Venice, Milan and the Italian lakes.

Italy was found to be a very beautiful country with prices quite reasonable. For these reasons there are large crowds of tourists there. Mrs. Peirce found it quite a delightful place to shop, with the wearing apparel and other articles quite as beautiful as found in Paris and at much lower prices. Musolini seems to be a very powerful man and conditions seem to be very good, according to Mr. and Mrs. Peirce.

From the Italian lakes, Mr. and Mrs. Peirce went to Lake Lucerne. They found that prices in Switzerland and Holland were very high and for that reason there are not many people visiting there. As high as 40 cents was paid for one cup of coffee in Holland. General conditions in Belgium were found to be very good.

According to Mrs. Peirce the Ruhr district was very unsettled and difficult to get into and out of. For this reason they did not get to visit the points of interest in Germany. The food in the Ruhr district was very poor, most of the real articles being replaced with substitutes.

With the exception of more handwork being put on the dresses, Mrs. Peirce states that she did not see very much difference between Parisian styles and those here. A spirit of unrest was found to be evidenced among the working people in England, but nevertheless large numbers of beautiful buildings are being constructed and things seem to be very busy.

According to Mr. and Mrs. Peirce, although this was their first trip abroad and a very interesting one for them, the best part of it was coming home.

If you want the crust of your bread to be soft rub the top of the loaf with butter 10 minutes before taking out of the oven. Or you may use water if you wish to be economical.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Lingenberg and three children have arrived in Glendale from Chicago and are houseguests at present of Mr. Lingenberg's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Lockwood of 725 North Louise street. The Lingenbergs will locate permanently in Glendale.

Mr. and Mrs. P. S. McNutt of Sycamore Canyon have been entertaining two nephews and a friend who accompanied them on a cross-continent auto tour from Pennsylvania to California. The nephews are Eugene Bowersox and Harry McNutt, the friend being Mr. Shoemaker. All the boys have had a delightful time sightseeing. Mr. Bowersox has gone home by train but his cousin and Mr. Shoemaker are still here and one or both may remain permanently. Mrs. McNutt reports that the chief interest in Sycamore Canyon is the platting of subdivisions, and the marketing of the apricot crop. She anticipates that the McNutt holdings will have to be subdivided before long to meet the demand for porperty there.

DOROTHY ALGIE GIVES CONCERT

About sixty invited guests were present at the recital of Miss Dorothy Algie, pupil of the Emerson School of Expression given at the school Monday evening, and all were delighted with the talent exhibited by the gifted student who has been at work only about six months. She was warmly encored after each group and showered with dahlias, receiving two baskets and a big bouquet of them, from members of the cast in the play to which the last part of the program was devoted.

Miss Algie was also presented with a box of candy from the cast, the speech of presentation being made by Aleck Badger.

Musical interludes were provided by Mrs. Katherine P. Myers, violinist, and Mrs. Rhodes, pianiste, both of Los Angeles.

Two vocal numbers were contributed by Mrs. Finley, and her mother, Mrs. Cravens, was hostess of the evening.

Refreshments were served at the close of the evening when Miss Algie's friends had opportunity to say goodbye to the artist of the evening, who is leaving for the east this week. She expects, however, to return and resume her studies in the fall.

Mrs. Evelyn Labadie, head of the Emerson school, states that the play of which the program furnished a "sample" as it were, will be given a full production later in the season when the public will be given opportunity to see what the school is doing.

Many a true word has been spoken regardless of grammar.

GIFT SHOP OPENS AT JENSEN'S ARCADE

A clever little shop that will be a welcome addition to the stores of Glendale has opened its doors in the Jensen Arcade, North Brand, under the name of the Gift and Art Needle Workshop.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Brown, coming from Pasadena to Glendale to make their home, are owners. Many clever art novelties and useful articles pleasingly decorated will charm the giver of gifts who seeks to find something different

A complete line of infant's wear is also to be carried. Fine handmade garments, dainty sacques of silk and crochet, hoods and caps, bootees, and rattles especially designed for the tiny tots.

Plastic art novelties will also be found at this shop, and orders have been sent for large varieties of gift goods, Mrs. Brown states. A shipment of Old Dutch silver in vases, urns, and other items is expected daily.

TWO SPEAKERS AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Sunday, July 15, was Kansas day in Central Christian Bible school and the rostrum was decorated for the occasion with sunflowers, stalks of corn and bags of flour. About 25 loyal Jayhawkers lined up in front, with three typical bewhiskered farmers in the center and sang "Kansas Land."

The pastor, Rev. Clifford A. Cole, preached at Magnolia avenue Christian church, Los Angeles, in the morning, by special request of the pastor and congregation and in the evening at a union meeting held in the West Adams Presbyterian church. His pulpit was occupied at the morning worship hour by Wm. Remfry Hunt, for thirty-five years a missionary in China, also an extensive traveler with a record of 21 circumnavigations of the globe, spoke on "The Great Quest of Man After God," weaving into the sermon many tales of his own thrilling experiences, showing that in every nation and every clime men are seeking earnestly for a superior being; and how gladly they respond to the call when Jesus the Redeemer of mankind is held up before them in His transcendent beauty, was his conclusion.

In the evening Rev. Charles Hudson, for 10 years pastor of the great church at Pomona, but now state superintendent of missions for the Christian churches of Southern California, wove a pleasing word picture around Paul's declaration, "I never lose heart." He asked all who had ever had the blues to raise their hands, then told them how to avoid such visitations in the future. He said that one to be so rooted and grounded in the Christian faith that he never loses heart must have a great passion, a great faith and a great hope. He earnestly plead with the young folk to lay hold on every opportunity for service and thereby strengthen every worthy impulse.

NEW LOCATION IS GO-GETTER

"More people have been finding their way into our office since we moved to our West Broadway location," states J. F. Stanford, of the Stanford real estate firm, 108 West Broadway.

Mr. Stanford, who is a pioneer realtor of Glendale, having been in the business here since 1910, was formerly located on South Brand boulevard. The new offices offer more desk space, and have allowed for an increase in the sales force and in the building department.

"On the whole, results have been very gratifying since we made our move," Mr. Stanford states.

'CHILDREN OF JAZZ' OPENS AT T. D. & L.

Seldom has such interest been evidenced during the production of a motion picture as was manifested during the filming of water scenes for the Paramount picture, "Children of Jazz," which is now on view at the T. D. & L. theater.

The story calls for a thrilling chase, having as its principals a large sailing vessel and a hydroplane piloted by Ted Carter, played by Ricardo Cortez. Clyde Dunbar, portrayed by Robert Cain, is a passenger. The heroine, played by Eileen Percy, has been abducted by the schooner's crew—a rough lot, who have already apparently put their skipper, Richard Forestall, out of the way.

Between scenes, the production unit was getting everything in readiness for one of the most thrilling climaxes ever staged for motion picture purposes and was making every arrangement to insure the safety of the players. A considerable crowd had gathered on the location, and everything was declared to be in readiness for shooting. The hydroplane shot out across the water as the cameraman started turning. In a long, graceful swoop the plane took to the air and headed for the schooner lying but a short distance away. Its occupants, harnessed to parachutes, were preparing for their perilous descent to the boat's deck. Carter in the forward cockpit, when his plane was directly over the schooner, lashed his controlling lever fast and with his companion jumped, landing perilously near the edge though safely on the deck. The plane, as though yet under human guidance, because of the lashed control, glided gracefully away, coming to a stop further out at sea, for Director Jerome Storm had seen to the little detail of fuel, placing in the crafts tank just enough to carry it with safety to where the schooner rested.

With the stunt successfully accomplished, the crowd lining the shore let out a cheer. This is but one of the many gripping episodes of a splendid production, a picturization of the stage play, "Other Times," by Harold Brighouse. The supporting cast includes Alec B. Francis, Frank Currier, Lillian Drew and Snitz Edwards.

LA CRESCENTA IS JUBILANT OVER ELECTRIC LINE

Reduced Fares and More Speed to Come to the Canyon Folks

LA CRESCENTA, July 17.—The residents of the entire valley are rejoicing over the signing of contracts for the right of way for the Glendale and Montrose railway and are hopeful of traveling the new route by the first of the year. The transportation from here at a reduced fare and less time and the extension of the road from Los Angeles to Pennsylvania avenues, are improvements greatly appreciated by this entire district. Much credit is due P. L. Hatch, the superintendent, for his untiring efforts, not only for the betterment of the road, but for the comfort of the public.

LA CRESCENTA NOTES

Seventy members of the Sunset club of Pasadena were guests of H. A. Baldridge at his home, Onondarka ranch last Saturday. Swimming, tennis, rides and hikes over the Orondarka trails and a dance in the evening at the school auditorium were happy features of the day's outing.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McLaughlin of North Rosemont avenue, with a party of Los Angeles friends, are enjoying a motor trip through Grant and Sequoia parks.

F. K. Czerniski returned last Thursday from a six weeks' eastern trip. Mr. Czerniski left May 31 for the Shriners' convention at Washington, D. C., later visiting cities in the east, middle west and his former home, San Antonio, Texas.

Mrs. Katherine Phillips Edson of Los Angeles and San Francisco, and Miss Maude Phillips of Pasadena, were guests of Miss Delia Bastable last Saturday.

Mrs. M. R. Bissell and her sister, Mrs. Kittie Smith, who have been the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Bissell for the past two weeks, leave today for their home in Grand Rapids, Mich. Mrs. Bissell and Mrs. Smith have been the incentive for many charming affairs during their visit here.

A large and interested audience enjoyed the splendid talk made by Harry W. Brown at the Community church last Sunday morning. Mr. Brown has charge of an industrial school in Bombay, India, and his talk on India and his work there for the past seven years was greatly enjoyed. The services of the Community church are being held at the school auditorium, as the little church on Michigan avenue was much too small to accommodate the fast growing membership of the church. Rev. H. A. Kelso announces the work on the new church will be resumed today and will be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible. The Sunday school reached beyond the 100 mark Sunday morning and the Bible class taught by Rev. McLaughlin had a record attendance. The usual cottage prayer meeting will be held Wednesday evening.

LA CRESCENTA, July 17.—Dr. B. H. Smith of 501 South Los Angeles avenue received notice that he had passed the state board of medical examiners to practice his profession in the state of California. Dr. Smith formerly lived at St. Joseph, Mo., where he was connected with the state hospital for many years. Dr. Smiths residence here has been closely identified with the growth and development of the La Crescenta Valley, being deeply interested in the building of the Community church and for the past two years has been secretary of the school board. Much of the success of the past school year was due to the personal interest of Dr. Smith in the school work.

Truths in Epigram

PLANNING FOR PEACE

Essays outlining plans for preserving the peace of the world are being handed in to a gentleman who has offered a prize for the best. If they serve no other purpose, at least they will direct the common thought into beneficent channels. The idea of a warless world may be Utopian, and yet it is a theme upon which the human mind is wont to dwell with yearning. It is frequently said that war is a crime. In a broad way this is true. On the other hand, war may be the expression of altruism, of courage and patriotism. To bring about a war deliberately would be a crime; to wage it on behalf of an unjust cause would be a crime. But to refrain from war with a brutal enemy at the gates also would be a crime.

One of the propositions for prevention of war comes from Mr. Marshall, formerly vice president of the United States. He would have no war declared until a referendum had been taken among all men and women more than eighteen years of age in the countries affected. Should the verdict favor war, then he would have an interval of sixty days before the beginning of hostilities. Doubtless Mr. Marshall is guided by the highest of aspirations. No fault is to be found with the spirit of his theory. The fatal weakness is that it could not be made workable. It pre-supposes conditions that do not exist. It would have to be based upon an understanding and agreement among all nations. Otherwise while one nation was voting, another would be assembling armies and munitions, and the sixty days of abeyance on one side would be marked by invasion from the other.

Mr. Marshall, perhaps quite unconsciously, is making a plea for a league of nations. In the absence of a compact by which all are bound in honor, and subject to being coerced into good behavior by other signatories, it is futile to dream of permanent peace. The United States had the opportunity to enter such a league, but flouted and rejected it. Now it may speculate concerning peace, happily may hold aloof from fighting. As to the maintenance of general peace it has the privilege of using precept and example. Beyond this point it is helpless.

UNGRATEFUL ISLANDERS

A dispatch from Manila says: "French ratification of the Four-Power naval treaty is hailed by the advocates of Filipino independence here as a big step towards driving the United States from the islands."

The ratification is described further as meaning "liberation of the Philippines because the United States will be practically forced to abandon the islands."

There has been frequent evidence that the Filipino has the mind of a child, but not necessarily that of a naughty brat in need of a spanking. The idea that the United States would not be able to keep the islands from the grasp of Japan, but that the simple islanders would be quite equal to the task, may be cited as unique.

This country always has intended to grant the Philippines full independence the instant they are fit for it. The individuals who have been clamoring for "independence" are for the most part small politicians of a rather noisome type. They want to get a personal grip on affairs. For this purpose they maintain a bureau which indulges freely in words for concealment of the real purpose.

The singular allegation that Japan, party to the treaty just ratified by France, could with ease take possession of the Philippines, while the United States, already there, could not retain its grasp, does not reflect credit on the mental powers of the Filipinos who with naive simplicity deem themselves prepared to conduct their own affairs without so much as the friendly advice of America.

The United States has expended millions for redemption of the Philippines, the islands still being a liability, not an asset. It has given them an educational system, judicial machinery, a financial basis, and started them on the road to national status. The inhabitants, so far as their voices are heard through the output of the bureau, seem to be an ungrateful lot, perhaps with the potentiality of ultimate self-government, but at present manifestly and even grossly incompetent.

WHEN STRIKING WOULD BE A CRIME

It is said that the "wobblies" plan a strike among farm hands, to take place at the beginning of harvest. The term employed designates members of the I. W. W. or other malcontents in sympathy with them. The proposed strike could not be defended on any ground. It could not be brought about in behalf of justice. It could not be regarded as having any relation to the subject of wages. The only explanation for it would be as a malign and wicked effort to create trouble, to foment hatreds, and to impair prosperity.

Farmers are now paying by far the largest wages ever demanded of them. They pay on a war time scale, and have difficulty in getting labor at that. The men who are seeking to bring about this strike do not want work. They want not to work. It is their ambition to share the profits of industry, but always without being industrious. They are wholly illogical, but very earnest, this combination of qualities making them dangerous.

In the great agricultural states there are well-to-do and even wealthy farmers. In the vast section including the Dakotas, Wyoming, Utah, Montana, Idaho and eastern Washington, the farmers are fighting desperately for a livelihood. They are poor and getting poorer. They are deeply in debt, and without prospect of getting out. The wage that these farmers must pay to each hired helper is far greater than the farmer himself gets out of his operations, for the farmer has been getting less than nothing.

A strike directed against the farmer would be unspeakably cruel. It could accomplish nothing but his financial ruin, save as it would also cause widespread discomfort and hardship. It certainly could not better the condition of the "wobblies." They must be aware of it themselves, and being aware, their attitude may be ascribed to a meanness that stamps them as the enemies of society.

Electrification of the Pacific end of the Milwaukee road has been so highly successful that there would be no surprise at seeing the method generally adopted. It certainly wins the approval of every passenger.

A news item a few days ago told of a farmer who had torn up sixty feet of railroad and placed a large building in the gap. The item left him right there defying a baffled locomotive. It would be interesting to know what became of him.

New roads soon to be constructed in Los Angeles county will cost $963,000. Similar work will be done in other parts of the state. California highways are matchless.

People who believe that the universe is tumbling through space at the mercy of accident must be poor observers.

Estelle Lawton Lindsey

To the man with open eyes nothing is stranger than the curious way that fate links lives seemingly as far, asunder as the poles. Does fate unseen design the linking?

Last year a young woman in Los Angeles so aroused the jealousy of a tempermental wife that a tragic murder resulted. The wife of Undersheriff Eugene Biscailus knew neither woman. How then could the event effect her? Curiously, tragically, it did, for the murderess was convicted, escaped and fled to Honduras. Mrs. Biscailus accompanied her husband to Honduras when he went to bring the condemned woman back to the United States and there contracted a mysterious and terrible illness, so that the fury of Clara Phillips' jealousy fell like a blight on two lives, one of which she had never before touched.

Some years ago some women who had never seen each other came to California, one to cure her body, the other to ease the ache in her soul. The sick woman had a distinguished career and a newspaper woman looking for copy made a historic story about this personage. A distant cousin of the sick woman read the story, wrote and later called. The two became friends and the friendship extended to the woman whose story had brought them together. She, in her turn, introduced the distant cousin to the girl with the sick soul and the acquaintance ripened into love and marriage. The marriage is supremely happy and a beautiful home and family are the result of one woman's illness and another's need of copy.

A woman, visiting a married friend in the east, fell out with her hostess in whose house she had met the man she intended to marry. In her anger she said cruel and unjust things about the woman who had entertained her.

The victim of this gossip heard of it and called on the friend to ask what had been said. Not wishing to make trouble, the recipient of the gossip stream denied that anything had been said to her.

"That is not true," replied her caller. "I know that much was said and it is fair that I should know what it is."

With the best intentions the woman caught in the possession of damaging gossip selected what she conceived to be the mildest and least harmful thing that had been said by the guest about her hostess and told it in the hope that she would be no further questioned.

But there were hidden chapters in the life of the hostess and that story, seemingly so innocent, touched deeps unsuspected by the woman who repeated it and resulted in a tragic breaking off of the pending marriage of the gossip and a lifetime enmity between three or four people.

A surge of pity in the heart of a white teacher in Honolulu moved her to take in her arms and comfort a hurt child. As a result of that contact the teacher died on Molokai, the leper island of the Hawaiian group.

Were these things accidental? Or is there some obscure force that drives us all toward our destiny?

"Ask a blessing," says the oriental, "but never try to imagine whence it will come. The gods have many instruments," which, no matter how you view it, is the best reason for banishing fear.

Unless we know the myriad threads that bind us to all living things we can erect no effective barriers against the coming of calamity and our joy may at any moment come riding on a dark horse from the unknown.

THE RIGHT WORD

CONCERNING "AFFECT" AND "EFFECT"
(Find the error in this article)

When it is a noun you need, generally speaking do not entertain the use of affect. The following examples illustrate this rule:

What do you think the effect will be on him?

The change will have a beneficial effect upon your health.

The effect on this rule is obvious.

Most people have trouble with affect and effect when these words are used as verbs. Just remember that affect means to change or influence, while effect means to bring about; cause; produce; achieve; accomplish. The following examples illustrate the uses of affect and effect:

His negligence will affect his health.

He has finally effected his aims.

Your order will affect his movements in the future.

An objectionable rule has been effected, which is sure to be broken.

Note the use of all of these words in one sentence:

The effect on the rule recently effected by our manager cannot help but affect other rules that have been effected by the same executive.

Vocabulary

Interpolate means to insert, as new or unauthorized matter, in a writing; to make insertions: to interpose. Note, therefore, the following words: interpolation (an insertion); interpolator (one who inserts).

Queries

Helen K. Thomas: "Kindly advise me the correct spelling of retroaction—namely, is it hyphenated or written without a hyphen?

Answer: Retroaction is correct. The hyphen is not used so frequently as formerly.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

JAMES W. FOLEY

The Philosopher and the Youth were discussing things.

And the Philosopher said: "I must make a friend of mine a gift."

And he set about looking for something to make a gift of.

* * *

The Philosopher did not have many things to serve as gifts.

Because being a Philosopher he did not set too much value in things.

And he explained it all to the Youth.

* * *

"If I have too many things," he said, "my attention is necessarily engaged by them."

And he explained that the attention of a Philosopher should be engaged by searching after the truth of living.

And was not to be engaged by things.

But by principles and truths.

* * *

For the Philosopher explained that if he had jewels he should be in fear of losing them.

If he had furs, he should be in fear of moths.

If he had servants he should be in fear of being left helpless by quittings.

If he had laces, he should be in fear of injuries to them.

If he had priceless rugs he should be in fear of fire.

* * *

So he indicated that the possession of things of value carried with it a constant fear of loss.

And so he had only such possessions as were essential.

Simple, common and readily replaced.

And in searching for a gift for his friend he looked through his whole possessions.

And took up one thing after another and put it aside.

"It will not do," he said.

"Why not?" said the Youth.

"I do not prize it enough," he said.

* * *

"Why should you give away something you prize?" said the Youth. "Why not give something you do not prize?"

"If I gave away something I did not prize," said the Philosopher, "it would not be a gift. It would be merely getting rid of something. I can make a gift only of that I prize and wish to keep myself."

* * *

And the Youth wondered.

That a Philosopher who had so few things to prize should select the thing he prized most to give away.

While the Philosopher smiled.

And went on seeking.

* * *

And at last he came to the thing he prized most of all.

And he set it aside.

"I shall give my friend that as a gift he said.

"But will it delight him to give it?" said the Youth.

"I do not know," said the Philosopher, "but it will benefit me to give it. For by giving away the thing I prize most I shall learn generosity."

* * *

"And what is generosity?" asked the Youth.

"Generosity," said the Philosopher, "lies in giving away that which you prize and would keep, but that some one else needs more and should have."

Songs of the Poets

My Prayer—By Henry David Thoreau

Great God, I ask thee for no meaner pelf
Than that I may not disappoint myself;
That in my action I may soar as high
As I can now discern with this clear eye.

And next in value, which thy kindness lends,
That I may greatly disappoint my friends,
Howe'er they think or hope that it may be,
They may not dream how thou'st distinguished me.

That my weak hand may equal my firm faith,
And my life practise more than my tongue saith;
That my low conduct may not show,
Nor my relenting lines,
That I thy purpose did not know,
Or overrated thy designs.

THE BUSINESS OF BEING FUNNY

By DR. FRANK CRANE

IN NO country in the world and in no period of history is so much space, time and energy shown in the business of being funny, as may be seen in this country and in this day. Newspapers teem with comic pictures, columns of jokes, and pages of humor. Whole Sunday supplements are full of all manner of gewgaws, jimcracks, cartoons, quips, absurdities, and monstrosities, wherewith to provoke laughter.

And when you see a group of Americans reading this matter on a suburban train, they look as solemn as owls.

What is the matter with us? Are we an exhausted crowd of nervous wrecks, weak and sad from the lassitude following business debauch, people who must be galvanized into mirth by ultra-clownishness?

We like a fool and love a mountebank—once in a while; but to live forever among face-making, heel-cracking, hee-hawing humans, whose whole aim in life seems to be to produce a spasm of cachination—this is too much.

To go to a vaudeville every day, to read a funny paper every day, is as bad as to go to church or to a funeral every day. Come to think of it, the professional funny man and the undertaker have much the same facial expression.

We hardly realize the fundamental law of fun which is that it is founded on seriousness. Without a serious bottom no funny structure can stand.

A professional medium is most successful in convulsing his audience when he keeps a sober, and even a gloomy, face. A grim remark from a sour-faced Scotchman strikes us as witty, when the same thing said by a laughing clown will not seem funny at all.

Fun is the foam and sparkle and shine of life, but it must be upon the service of great deeps. The waves of the ocean are more beautiful than the ripples of a shallow pond.

When we make a business of fun we are in great danger. Dr. Holmes points out the embarrassing fact that when we once stand on our head before an audience, that audience will never be satisfied unless we stand on our head all the time.

Fun is like salt and pepper to life. A little of it gives relish, but too much of it spoils the meat.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

WHAT THE FILMS TEACH
[Worcester Telegram]

"America is a large country entirely surrounded by sin and sentiment. It is inhabited in the east by unscrupulous but enormously successful business men, who devote their nights to squandering in cabarets their ill-gotten gains of the day before. In the west 'bad men' rob stage coaches and banks and shoot sheriffs and their partners in crime and spend a good deal of time rolling on the ground in attempts to gouge each other's eyes out. The north is peopled by bear-scoundrels who go there to escape from the law, to steal mining claims and to menace lonely girls snowbound in log cabins. The south is notable for cacti and half-breeds. The last named have no particular vice, they are just bad." This is the impression of America received by a British movie fan from American films shown in England. Americans who read British novels know that all Englishmen are tall, thin and brown as a berry. They are not lazy but they never work. They drink brandy and soda every three minutes but never get drunk.

AND ANOTHER IF
[Charleston News and Courier]

If this tour teaches the President that the bitter-enders at Washington are deceiving him, when they tell him that the American people are utterly opposed to the League, the tour will accomplish something though it ought not to be necessary for Mr. Harding to make a 15,000-mile trip in order to learn the truth about this matter.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

There is nothing of good to be said about prizefighting. Professional pugilism is a disgraceful calling. The disgrace falls less on the individual than on the public that makes possible the activities of the individual.

HENRY JAMES.

Dempsey was promised a grotesquely absurd pile of money for fighting in Montana. When the amount fell short of the stipulated total, although still remaining ridiculously large, Dempsey and his manager wanted to get out of fighting at all. They might have done this, too, but as they doubtless would have been lynched had they done so, were wise to make the pretense of earning it.

The public was interested in that fight because it desired to see Dempsey knocked cold. It was interested in the Willard fight later, owing to the hope that some scrapper would there manifest the prowess equal to doing what Gibbons failed to do in Montana.

The prizefighter is wholly useless, a cumberer of the earth. His existence is annoying because it serves to give the public away. Civilization pretends to be something worth while. Then it pays a fancy price to see one throwback beat another until the blood flies. Reflecting upon this exhibition of its own debased instinct, it is inclined to be ashamed; until the next fight, bringing the chance to be a sucker again.

It is wrong to pay a fighter for being useless especially while there are many quite useful persons, who work, or invent, or cure, or preach, and are paid grudgingly the mites they receive.

* * *

Whisky, as evidence, seems to be an illusive thing. When it goes to a jury it has been known to have vanished for keeps. The bailiff got only the empty receptacle, and not even this if some juryman had been thoughtful enough to throw it out of the window.

Whether or not a suspected liquor is intoxicating ought to be determined by some other method than letting the jury sample it.

* * *

The Near East Peace Conference would be entitled to greater respect were it to pay more attention to peace and less to oil. When a diplomatic conference resolves itself into a squabble over petroleum, it ceases to command profound esteem.

* * *

The owner of a lot of whisky protests that after it had been seized illegally, and ordered by the court to be returned, it never came back. In lieu of it he received a lot of stuff that he dares not drink nor sell.

Prohibition enforcement officers guilty of such a trick, are not playing the game fairly. They ought to be made to trade back.

* * *

"We've not gone back to barbarism yet in Arizona," says the governor of that state. He was speaking in reference to the proposal to have a prizefight there.

It is very pleasing not to have gone back to barbarism, but the state of Arizona must have wandered from the beaten path, and broken its own trail.

Much of the insistence that the ruin of Germany would mean the ruin of Europe is due to a misunderstanding.

A nation is a collection of people having certain resources. There is no plan to kill off the Germans, nor yet to destroy any part of the resources.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

CRUELTY TO FLOWERS

This is the season for cruelty to flowers. Perhaps you think that flowers have no intelligence and no feeling that cruelty can reach? But maybe they have, what then?

If they have no intelligence they have something that stands for it. Did you ever watch the plants on a hot sunny day and see that by middle afternoon many of them have folded their leaves and hung them limply by their sides? Toward night they will spread them out again and hold them crisply open to the cool damp air. They had been saving their moisture. The sun was getting too much of it, so they reduced the surface he could reach.

Did you ever help a pea-vine to catch hold of a bit of twig to help herself up. You bring the little twig close enough for the outstretched tendrill to touch and it will curl about that twig so tightly that you can separate them only by breaking the tendrill, which of course you haven't the heart to do, because that would be cruel.

You pick the blossoms off the plants so that they will keep on making more. They will insist on making seeds and so bloom on until frost strikes them down. How does the plant know that its seeds have not been born and that it must keep on trying to make them?

They must have some sort of intelligence and some sort of feeling. That is why they look so sad when they are gathered at the wrong time and treated the wrong way. Saddest of all are those that the motorist gathers, piles in his car and tosses away at the end of his trip.

You catch glimpses of them as they lie dejectedly on the lap of the lady in the back seat. All the gladness of their color has left them. They are fainting for water, dying. Seems cruel doesn't it?

That is why children should be taught not to pick every flower they see growing. It seems inhuman for a happy growing child to snatch away the life of a beautiful growing flower, and it is not right to permit children to do something that faintly whispers of cruelty or wanton destruction of lovely things.

Yet when children stand back in awed delight at the sight of a lovely bed blossoming plants some grown-up is sure to say, "Pick them. Don't you want some? Pick them!"

It would be far better for the spirit of the child to let him look at the flowers and leave them there to grow on in loveliness and peace.

Teach him how to pick flowers and then teach him to care for them properly after he has gathered them. Otherwise, let them alone.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

My old friend the broker shook hands with me today. Maybe I am going a bit too far in calling him an old friend. He is barely an acquaintance. If I see him first I try to escape, but he usually sees me before I see him. The vicissitudes of his business have made him sharp-eyed. There are many people he does not want to talk with.

"I wish you'd walk down to the office with me," he said, ingratiatingly. "I want to show you a new device I'm putting on the market. Now is the time to subscribe. Get some of this stock and be rich in a year."

"I do not want to be rich," I told him. "I prefer poverty. I'm used to it. I wouldn't pick up a million dollars if I saw 'em in the street. They would derange my whole plan of life."

This is at least the tenth time that he has offered to make me rich. Sometimes it is oil, sometimes gold, sometimes copper, sometimes inventions. He is lively, pleasing, somewhat shabby, but always smokes good cigars and never tells his home address. Now and then he gets married again.

"This is a good one," he said, earnestly. Honest."

I believe it—in spite of my knowledge of him—that he really means it. But I would not trust him with a penny. He comes of a good family and he graduated from a good university, but he deliberately cheapened himself. He never stopped to think whether the particular enterprise with which he connected himself was honest. His eyes were always fixed on the immediate profit to himself.

For ten years he has been steadily going down hill morally until now he has no more reputation than a gypsy. Now and then he makes money and rides in a fine car and wears the largest yellow diamonds that ever came from South Africa. But he always slips again.

You can spot him now at a glance. He's cheap.

THE SUN
can play havoc with your house

Its blistering heat will quickly end the protection offered by paint that is not the best. And once the paint goes, decay and deterioration set in.

It will pay you to protect your property with Patton's Sun-Proof Paint. We can recommend it highly. It covers the surface with a hardy, moisture-proof film. Its unusual elasticity enables it to cope with extreme heat and cold without blistering, cracking or peeling. It lasts indefinitely and covers an unusually large surface per gallon.

Assure yourself real satisfaction by letting us provide you with Patton's Sun-Proof Paint. We have it ready for your use. Also, paints, varnishes and enamels for any purpose you have in mind. Tell us what you want to paint and we will tell you how to do it.

HOW OFTEN HAVE YOU HEARD THE EXPRESSION, "WHEN MY SHIP COMES IN, I AM GOING TO DO THIS OR THAT"; OR, "WHEN LUCK FAVORS ME, THEN I WILL UNDERTAKE ACCOMPLISHING CERTAIN THINGS."

A few who are favored with legacies, who receive money other than for their own efforts, seldom apply constructive thoughts; too much money takes all the efforts and joys out of life and makes it hard to appreciate the worth-while things. It is the thrifty man or woman who adopts the saving habit, carefully considers the future and has the ability and stick-to-it-ive-ness to make sacrifices if necessary to obtain their goal, who are really happy, contented and get most out of life; these kind of folks represent the successful people you know. All around you is evidence of success, of determination to succeed, families who are happily housed in homes of their own, made a reality through conservative and continuous efforts; while, on the other hand, you have acquaintances who have and always will exist in homes provided by others, retained only at a monthly rental; they prefer to live up to their daily earnings, let the future care for itself and in later years condemn the world because of their self-styled misfortune.

THERE IS AN AWAKENING TIME IN THE LIVES OF EVERY MAN AND WOMAN

It comes with the realization of old age and the thoughts of possible misfortune and adversities; it is then they make resolves for the future and come to know the really worth-while things of life are attained only through persistent savings and consistent efforts, and when these are applied toward the building or buying a home, it is then they appreciate fully the high ideal of existence.

YOU ARE NEVER TOO YOUNG OR TOO OLD TO UNDERTAKE ACQUIRING A HOME

The longer you put it off the harder it is to make the start and the longer it will be before it is paid for and all your own. Surely you long for a home you can call your very own, and you are entitled to such a place, and today is the time to arrange for one.

H. C. BARR IS GOING BOOSTING FOR GLENDALE

H. C. Barr of the C. M. Realty company, left yesterday via auto for Oregon to dispose of his Oregon real estate holdings to be gone about six weeks. Mr. Barr will stop at all the auto camps along the highway, going and coming, advertising the listings of homes and lots and acreage property of the C. M. Realty company, and in addition to the above will be a good booster for our wonderful city of Glendale. Being an old traveling salesman, he will be equal to the occasion as Mr. Barr thinks Glendale is the city of homes.

GLENDALE SHOULD BE PROUD OF ITS PUBLICATIONS

Moving Picture Expert Commants on the Movie Contest

By OSCAR A. KANTNER

(Mr. Kantner has been identified with the Famous Players Lasky corporation, producers and distributors of Paramount pictures, for a great many years previous to his coming to Glendale from Atlanta, Georgia.)

It is not every town that is blessed with the amount of enthusiastic loyalty and support, such as that being accorded Glendale, "the fastest growing city in the country" by its splendid daily newspaper publications. The thing that so firmly imbeds itself in the mind of the newcomer to Glendale is the implicit confidence the people of Glendale have in their beautiful city. To the individual from another part of the country, Glendale people radiate an atmosphere of steadfast faith and enthusiastic belief that some day the mountains will have to be moved to make room for their city's expansion, and if the situation is carefully analyzed, one will be imbued with the idea that this within itself is responsible for the phenomenal growth Glendale is enjoying.

A beautiful city of homes laid down amid scenic beauties and wholesome climate is assurance of its substance and the honorable intentions of its people. Whenever we feel the pulse of a city of homes we find it strong and regular and quite unlike the town of apartment houses, filled with the shiftless and unsubstantial element of people and in this regard the people of Glendale have another reason to be thankful.

In the Friday, July 13, issue of the Press I read of the opportunity this publication is offering to the people of Glendale and vicinity, who aspire to become motion picture stars. This is evidence of true public-spirited citizenship upon the part of the Press and its management, in securing for its readers an opportunity to enter into an endeavor of such magnitude.

The fields for fame and fortune in motion pictures is practically unlimited for those persons who possess the fundamental requisites, and simply because the public is constantly demanding new faces in pictures, bigger and better productions, more theme and substance in their making, the stars of tomorrow have greater opportunities than those offered the stars of today.

We who have associated ourselves with and watched the growth of the motion picture industry have witnessed some drastic departures made in production from those employed a few years ago. The Paramount director, Cecil B. DeMille is credited with the distinction of being the "star maker" and those who are successful in the present Paramount-Press contest will materially profit through the great accomplishments of this master director.

Adolph Zukor has pioneered the motion picture industry from its very infancy. He was the first individual to conceive the idea of the five reel picture, and was criticized by associates for even thinking of producing a picture over two reels in length, and the vision and far-sightedness of the president of Paramount has startled the world since the completion of his first feature production, "Queen Elizabeth," featuring Sarah Bernhardt, to the supreme achievement, "The Covered Wagon," which is now enjoying remarkable attendance at Grauman's Egyptian theatre.

Personally, I believe that the people of Glendale will be enthused in their participation in the contest and trust that the winner will be able to tell Mr. Lacky to forward the contract to their address in the "fastest growing city."

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE SECRETARIES TO MEET

The secretaries of commerce of the Southern section, are to meet next Saturday, July 21, at Hermosa Beach. Inasmuch as the program will include out-of-door beach sports, members of the boards of directors of the chambers represented in the association are being invited to attend. Secretary Sanders will go and it is probable will be accompanied by representatives of the board of directors.

It is better to follow one good example than it is to set a dozen bad ones.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

A LITTLE SONG OF LIVING

It's something more than money;
It's something more than fame;
It's something more than winning;
It's the glory of the game.
It's having friends about you,
It's fighting battles through
With fellows who don't doubt you,
And who take your word as true.

It isn't all in learning,
It isn't all in place;
It isn't being victor,
It's the spirit of the race.
It's more in playing squarely,
No matter what the cost
For if you win unfairly
You haven't won—you've lost

It's not in being honored
With medals and degrees;
It's not in writs and parchments,
It's something more than these
It's more in being kindly,
In doing tasks right well,
The spirit is the kernel,
The other's but the shell.

It's not in might and power,
It's not in pomp and pride,
It's not in throne and sceptre,
These but the husk may hide.
It's more in being happy,
In loving hearts and true,
In striving, seeking, smiling,
And helping others too.

LAMP BLACK IS NEW MAKE-UP OF FILM STAR

Lamp black is the latest thing that has been added to the list of necesciities for the movie star's make-up box. It has come into vogue with the guarantee of the tiniest screen actor in captivity—a little white mouse that is a pet on the lot of the Thomas H. Ince studios.

Even a mouse has to "make-up" for a successful screen appearance. A be-whiskered little fellow has an important role in Ince's great human interest story, "Soul of the Beast," which is being shown at the Glendale theatre.

Out in the woods the mouse meets "Oscar," the elephant who has run away from the circus and is playfully uprooting trees, taking splash baths in all the streams and having a generally hilarious time.

"Oscar" has been king of the forest until he meets the tiny field mouse and then he meets his equal.

"Get out of the way, you big stiff!" squeaks Gray Coat as he runs insolently in front of the elephant.

"Certainly, sir," quavers the elephant as he beats a hasty retreat to the tallest timber in the Canadian backwoods.

When the white mouse, playing this important role, was to be filmed, the question of make-up seemed to present difficulties. Then Horace Williams, the casting director, had an inspiration. He got a box of lamp black and put the mouse into it. A few minutes later an indignant little gray mouse climbed out of the box into which a white mouse had been put.

The Ince pet has not yet regained the spotless whiteness which it boasted before its tremendously successful screen appearance in this Metro picture. "Soul of the Beast" was written by C. Gardner Sullivan and directed by John Griffith Wray.

MRS. CLEOPHAS IS HOSTESS AT HOME

Quite a delightful informal musical evening was enjoyed Sunday at the home of Mrs. Ed Cleophas 347 North Central avenue, when a group of friends gathered together. The guest of honor was Alexander Saslavsky, conductor of the Peoples' orchestra at San Francisco and who is the violin teacher of Miss Hazel Linkogel. Others present included Helen Livingston and father, Neil St. Clair Livingston of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. DeLorenzo, Mr. and Mrs. Frauenfelder of Los Angeles, Mrs. Mae Hoss, Mrs. Elizabeth Streith-Miller of Glendale and Miss Lalla Fagge. An impromptu musical program was very much enjoyed.

SPINAL COLUMN EASILY AFFECTED

"Chiropractic is advancing on a much more scientific plane than in former years," stated Dr. Minerva H. Hawman, whose offices are located at 221 West Broadway, suite 10.

"It is being found that much can be done in keeping the human body in good condition through mechano therapy. Also, it is not necessary to cause pain to patient in giving these treatments.

"The spinal column is a most sensitive part of the body. Vertebrae may be thrown out of place easily through strain of certain muscles, or through jarring or jolting the spinal column. To misplace vertebrae causes nervous disorders."

Dr. Hawman is a graduate of the Chicago college of Mechano Therapy, completing her work there in 1912. She also finished a course under Gosta Uhnell, Swedish masseuse of 40 years experience. Dr. Hawman has had an office in Glendale for six months, at the present location, and has found it necessary to acquire an additional suite of rooms to accommodate the large number of patients seeking her services. Combining chiropractic treatments and massages, Dr. Hawman has built up a very worthy clientel in this city and surrounding districts.
